

DOM NEWS BLAST

The LSU Department of Medicine Weekly Communication

Faculty Assembly School of Medicine Delegates Elected

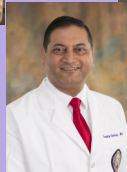

Congratulations to the followed DOM faculty on your recent election to the LSU Faculty Assembly!

Dr. Allison Augustus-Wallace (Medicine)

Dr. Jennifer Hart (Comprehensive Medicine)

Dr. Sanjay Kamboj (Hospital Medicine)

Dr. Michelle Korah-Sedgwick (Pulmonary/Critical Care/ Allergy/Immunology)

The Gold Humanism Honor Society awarded the Student and Resident of the Semester for the Spring of 2023 to:

L4: Lacey Falgout Rogers (soon to be an IM Intern)

Resident: Dr. Colin Cunningham (IM Resident)

Their interactions with peers, patients, and the community are noteworthy, and we commend them for being such great members of the LSUHSC community. These recipients embody the GHHS pillars of respect, integrity, service, and empathy.

Dr. Pia Chowdry (Hematology-Oncology) recently presented at the 2023 American Society of Clinical Oncology meeting – as part of the ASCO Voices. Her talk was entitled: The Long Road to Equity: Life in Cancer Alley. She did an outstanding job, and her presentation can be viewed here:

<https://asco-meetings.gallery.video/2023-am-bonus-content/detail/videos/all-sessions/video/6328802967112/asco-voices:-the-long-road-to-equity:-life-in-cancer-alley?autoStart=true>

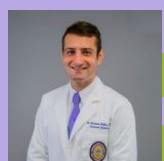

Dr. Paul Harch (Emergency Medicine) recently published with other LSU colleagues a paper on the use of serum microRNAs to distinguish between players with concussions from non-concussed players. MicroRNA is stable in biological fluids and was found to have both sensitivity and specificity in identifying players with concussions. This work was published in the Frontiers in Neurology.

Congratulations, Dr. Harch!

The Internal Medicine Residency program is delighted to announce the Chief Residents for the 2024 – 2025 academic year:

Dr. Jessica Bordes and Dr. Michael Millet

Congratulations to our incoming Medicine-Pediatrics Chiefs for the 2023-2024 academic year:

Dr. Meaghan Bank and Dr. Emily Riley.

