Volume 39, No. 1 - Spring '22

A Message from the Dean

Despite two years of disruptions caused by COVID, the School of Medicine continues to grow and improve. Our faculty has grown by 20% over 5 years and the pace did not slow down during the pandemic. In the last two years, we have recruited outstanding new leaders for the Departments of Internal Medicine (Dr. Cynthia Brown), Psychiatry (Dr. Rahn Bailey), Anesthesiology [Richard Pino ('90)], Cell Biology and Anatomy (Dr. Carmen Canavier) and Family Medicine [Emilio Russo ('05)]. We have three outstanding finalists in our search for the Department Head for Surgery, and we have begun the search for a new Department Head in Pediatrics. Working together with LCMC, we are recruiting additional faculty in all fields of cancer care and cancer research. We have a new Associate Dean for Admissions (Dr. Angela McLean), and we recently signed an important agreement with Xavier University that will help us recruit some of their best and brightest students to LSU School of Medicine.

The campus will see two other exciting changes in the coming months. First is the completion of a 13,000 square-foot state-of-the-art animal care facility in the late summer. Second will be opening the renovated Interim LSU Hospital building (the old Hotel Dieu Hospital). We plan to move our clinical departments out of the original medical school building at 1542 Tulane Avenue and into this renovated building in the fall and early winter. This is a big and positive change for the school. It will bring our clinical faculty into much needed new academic offices that are closer to the basic science departments, a short walk from the hospital, and across the street from the Gravier Clinic. This building will also house the Center for Advanced Learning (new and expanded simulation and training facilities), reception space, additional classrooms, a testing center, and a campus wellness center.

Amidst all of these changes, the recent Match Day celebration reminded me that our purpose is constant. Our students had a very successful match despite increasing competition nationwide. In addition to having many students match at prestigious programs around the country, we are delighted that 50% of this class chose to stay in Louisiana, and that 90% of those who remained in the State chose to train in our residencies. That is a testament to our training programs, our excellent faculty and our outstanding leaders.

While we are making many improvements on our campus, and while the health care environment around us is constantly changing, it is important to note that our core mission has not changed. The LSU School of Medicine continues to train the next generation of doctors for Louisiana. We could not do that without the strong support we receive from the Alumni Association. Thank you.

Respectfully,

Richard DiCarlo ('87)
Interim Dean

From your Alumni Office

Greetings to All,

I am extremely happy to share that our office is very busy planning our usual reunion weekend activities this year. Several classes who chose to postpone reunions from 2020 and 2021 will finally be able to celebrate together this year.

The Committee of 100 Banquet will be held on Thursday, June 9, 2022. The Friday cocktail reception will occur on June 10 and the Scientific Session (with CME) will be held on Saturday, June 11. Individual class parties will be held Saturday evening June 11. Letters with more specific information will be mailed to individual classes shortly.

Don't forget to save-the-date for this year's Gala, to be held at the Marriott Hotel on Saturday, October 29, 2022.

As always feel free to contact the Alumni Office with any questions or concerns.

Sincerely,
Cathi Fontenot

New Appointments and Promotions at School of Medicine

Richard DiCarlo ('87) has agreed to serve as Interim Dean. Dr. DiCarlo has served the school and the Health Sciences Center in many roles in his 28 years on the faculty, dedicating his career to serving students, residents and faculty. He has been recognized for excellence in teaching students and residents, and has overseen several major renewals of the medical curriculum. He was instrumental in restoring the school's educational programs after Hurricane Katrina, and has successfully led the school through multiple LCME accreditation visits. Most recently, he has overseen faculty hiring and promotions. He has worked closely with the school's clinical partners, and has succeeded in recruiting excellent new leaders to the school.

Emilio Russo ('05) has been appointed as Department Head for Family Medicine. He follows Dr. James Campbell, who admirably led the department as Interim Head through very challenging times.

Dr. Russo is a graduate of LSUHSC School of Medicine and was a member of the inaugural class of Rural Scholars Track students. He completed a rural Family Medicine residency in Spokane, Washington and has also completed a HRSA Leadership Fellowship. He joined the Family Medicine faculty in 2008 and has served as Program Director for the Bogalusa rural Family Medicine residency since 2013. In 2019 he became the department's Vice Chair of Clinical Affairs.

Dr. Russo has committed his career to the realization of more equitable community health outcomes, particularly for those most at risk and in diverse communities. Prior to joining the residency in Bogalusa, he spent five years practicing in vulnerable New Orleans neighborhoods as a member of the National Health Service Corps. Dr. Russo has an interest in disease prevention and has served as co-investigator of numerous regional trials of health screening in the primary care setting. He also has a longstanding interest in global health. In 2015 he developed a Global Health and Social Medicine elective rotation in which he supervises interprofessional students and residents in rural Peru. He serves as Chair of the LSUHSC Committee on International Educational Programs. He serves on numerous other school and hospital committees.

Stephanie Taylor ('88) has been promoted to Interim Senior Associate Dean for Faculty and Institutional Affairs. Dr. Taylor has served the school and community for many years and is widely respected for her work in sexually transmitted infections, achieving national and international distinction. Dr. Anthony Fauci recently welcomed her to the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases Advisory Council. In 2019, she received the American STD Association's Career Achievement Award.

She has published over 75 peer reviewed papers, including lead authorship for a recent paper in the New England Journal of Medicine. She has numerous other papers, book chapters, and national presentations, including chapters in Netter's Infectious Diseases and a chapter for the upcoming edition of Cecil's Textbook of Medicine.

Dr. Taylor has been successful in leading STI treatment and diagnostic studies, with a long history of funding from NIH, industry and private foundations. She has served the city and state as a leader in STI treatment and prevention, currently as Medical Director of the Louisiana Office of Public Health STD/HIV Program and the LSU-CrescentCare Sexual Health Center. In addition to her work as a clinician on the infectious diseases consult service and in the clinic, Dr. Taylor has also served the school as an outstanding educator. She has also been recognized by the Faculty Assembly for her community service, and continues to represent the school on many local, state and national boards.

Dr. Peter Winsauer will serve as Interim Department Head for Biochemistry. Dr. Winsauer has been funded by the NIH for more than 20 years and was awarded the Copping Award for teaching excellence in 2010. He has served as a leader in both the Faculty Assembly and Faculty Senate. In 2019, Dr. Winsauer was elected Secretary/Treasurer of the American Society for Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics (ASPET), and in 2020 he was appointed Assistant Dean for Basic Science Research.

Other promotions this quarter include:

Dr. Kristi Anderson has been promoted to Assistant Professor, Research.

Adam D'Arensbourg has been promoted to Quality Assurance Manager.

Gynell Nelson has been promoted to Nursing Supervisor.

News from the Department of Surgery

Robert C. Batson ('71) recently announced that he will step down as Department Head for Surgery.

Dr. Steve Nelson, Interim Chancellor, and Interim Dean Richard DiCarlo ('87), expressed their gratitude to Dr. Robert Batson for his decades of service and for his dedication to clinical excellence and strong training programs.

Dr. Batson will remain as Department Head until the search is complete and a new Department Head is appointed. He will continue to oversee all departmental operations and help ensure a smooth transition of leadership.

Dr. Batson graduated from LSU School of Medicine, completed a residency in surgery at Charity Hospital, and completed a vascular surgery fellowship at Baylor University Medical Center. After his fellowship, he returned to New Orleans to serve as Chief Resident of LSU Surgery, and he was given a faculty appointment as Clinical Instructor. After his year as Chief Resident, he was appointed to LSU as Assistant Professor, and quickly rose to the rank of Professor. He also served as Program Director for Vascular Surgery, and Section Chief of Vascular Surgery before being appointed as Interim Department Head in 2010 and Department Head for Surgery in 2011. In his 10 years as Department Head, he has fostered the expansion of the faculty, new clinical initiatives and the growth of our training programs. He oversees the training of over 100 surgical residents and fellows per year by more than 50 faculty.

Dr. Batson holds the Isidore Cohn, Jr., MD, Chair in Surgery, and he has been recognized nationally as a leader in the field of vascular surgery. He is a Distinguished Fellow of the Society of Vascular Surgery, and a former president of the Vascular and Endovascular Surgery Society. He has also served as president of local and regional societies such as the New Orleans Surgical Society, the Surgical Association of Louisiana, and the Louisiana Chapter of the American College of Surgeons.

Wisdom
thewisdomstudy.org

Dr. Agustin Garcia, Section Chief of Hematology/Oncology at LSU Health, was named as Principal Investigator for the WISDOM Study. WISDOM is a nationwide trial funded by the NCI and PCORI to test a personalized approach to breast cancer screening and prevention. The LSU Health community, including patients, colleagues, their families, and their friends are welcome to participate. The study is open to all women in the U.S. ages 40-74 with no history of breast cancer, regardless of where she receives her care. With numerous published guidelines about how often women should receive preventive mammogram screenings, the WISDOM Study was established to test a new approach to breast screening in an effort to clarify these breast cancer screening guidelines and to raise awareness of breast cancer. WISDOM's goal is to determine whether a personalized screening recommendation

(based on risk, including family history and genetic testing) is a safe and effective alternative to the annual mammogram. Participation in the WISDOM Study is voluntary and easy. Enrollment and follow-up are online, there are no study visits, and during the five-year study period, participants can continue to receive care from their current healthcare provider. The study is being conducted nationwide in conjunction with five University of California medical centers, Sanford Health, LSU, University of Chicago and Ingalls Memorial Hospital, University of Alabama, and Topline MD in Florida. The goal for Louisiana is to enroll 4000 participants. For more information about the study, call (855) 729-2844 or visit thewisdomstudy.org.

Future Retirement Announced in Pediatrics

Dr. Raymond Watts, Department Head for Pediatrics, has announced his plans to retire later this year.

Dr. Watts obtained his MD from LSU Shreveport, where he was elected to AOA, and completed his pediatrics residency at University of Arkansas. After residency he spent four years in the Air Force Medical Corps and as a Clinical Assistant Professor at University of North Dakota. After his military service Dr. Watts completed a fellowship in Hematology-Oncology at UAB and then joined the faculty as an Assistant Professor in 1991. He remained on the faculty at UAB until 2015, advancing to Professor with Tenure and Chief of the Division of Pediatric Hematology-Oncology in 2008. At UAB Dr. Watts was recognized as an outstanding clinician, a gifted educator and an excellent researcher. He was funded by the NIH, CDC, private foundations and industry throughout his career at UAB. We were very fortunate to recruit him to serve as Professor and Head in the Department of Pediatrics, and as holder of the William H. Stewart Chair in Pediatrics in 2015.

As Department Head, Dr. Watts oversaw tremendous change and transition in the Department of Pediatrics. Nearly half of the current faculty in Pediatrics were recruited during his tenure. Clinical programs and services have expanded and quality of care at Children's Hospital has been continuously emphasized. Children's Hospital now leads the nation in several measures of patient quality and safety and the hospital is now the go-to place for pediatric subspecialty care in the region. The department has also been recognized for excellence in education, being voted the best clinical department by the medical students, and having numerous faculty who are recognized as outstanding teachers. Student interest in pediatrics has grown during his tenure as Department Head. Dr. Watts has been a tireless advocate for his faculty and has focused on improving diversity and equity in the department, improving faculty wellbeing, and expanding faculty interest in scholarship. Pediatric Department faculty are recognized leaders both at the Medical School and Children's Hospital. A focus on community advocacy is an enduring legacy of the LSU Department of Pediatrics under Ray's leadership. He has been instrumental in paving our relationship with the administration of Children's Hospital New Orleans and LCMC. The department and the school have benefitted from his presence as Department Head for the past six years.

Almost All LSU Health New Orleans Medical Grads Staying In-State Will Enter LSU Health Residency Programs

Match Day figures revealed that eighty-six percent of the graduating LSU Health New Orleans medical students who are staying in-state will enter an LSU Health residency program. Nearly 50% of the LSU Health New Orleans graduates chose to remain in Louisiana to complete their medical training (forty-eight percent, or 84 of 174 participating in the National Resident Match Program this year). LSU Health New Orleans School of Medicine residency programs in New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Lafayette, Lake Charles and Bogalusa will accept 222 new residents.

"The fact that nearly 90% of our graduates remaining in Louisiana chose an LSU Health residency program demonstrates their high degree of confidence in the quality of our training programs," notes Dr. Steve Nelson, Interim Chancellor of LSU Health New Orleans. "Though our outstanding students have many options, we are proud that they elected to stay home, with us. LSU Health New Orleans continues to supply the physicians who take care of the people of Louisiana."

The percentage of LSU Health New Orleans medical graduates going into primary care is 54% this year. Primary Care specialties include Family Practice, Internal Medicine, Medicine-Preliminary, Medicine-Primary, Obstetrics-Gynecology, Pediatrics, and Medicine-Pediatrics. OB-GYN is not always included in primary care data; however, in some Louisiana communities the only physician is an OB-GYN.

"This is a day that our senior students have anticipated for years," says Dr. Richard DiCarlo ('87), LSU Health New Orleans School of Medicine Interim Dean. "The Match process has become increasingly competitive, but our students did very well. That is a testament to the quality of our students, the excellence of our faculty, and the dedication of our leaders in the Offices of Student Affairs and Medical Education."

Of the 73 accredited residency and fellowship programs under LSU Health New Orleans, 35 participated in the Main NRMP Match whose results were released March 18, 2022. They are Anesthesiology, Child Neurology, Dermatology, Emergency Medicine (Baton Rouge and New Orleans), Family Practice (Kenner, Bogalusa, Lafayette and Lake Charles), Internal Medicine (Baton Rouge, Lafayette and New Orleans), Interventional Radiology, Medicine-Preliminary (Baton Rouge, Lafayette and New Orleans), Neurological Surgery, Neurology, Obstetrics-Gynecology (Baton Rouge and New Orleans), Orthopedic Surgery, Otolaryngology, Pathology, Pediatrics, Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, Plastic Surgery, Psychiatry (Baton Rouge and New Orleans), Radiology, General Surgery, Surgery-Preliminary, Vascular Surgery, Medicine-Pediatrics, Medicine-Emergency Medicine and Pediatrics-Emergency Medicine.

“LSU Health New Orleans medical graduates are in demand.” adds Dr. Cathy Lazarus, Associate Dean for Student Affairs at LSU Health New Orleans School of Medicine. “Those who pursue different experiences at this stage of their training are going to some of the most prestigious out-of-state programs. Many of them will bring the benefits of these experiences home when they return to Louisiana to practice.”

LSU Health New Orleans medical graduates who matched training programs in other states will be going to such highly regarded programs as Duke, Vanderbilt, Columbia, Georgetown, the University of Alabama-Birmingham, the University of California San Francisco, and Brown University, among others.

The Match, conducted annually by the National Resident Matching Program (NRMP), is the primary system that matches applicants to residency programs with available positions at U.S. teaching hospitals and academic health centers. The choices of the students are entered into a software program as are the choices of the institutions with residency programs. All U.S. graduating medical students found out March 18, 2022, where they “matched” and where they will spend their years of residency training.

National studies have found that many physicians set up their permanent practices in the areas where they have completed their residency programs, but Louisiana is different from many states. A high percentage of LSU Health medical graduates come home to establish their practices. The vast majority of physicians providing care to the citizens of Louisiana are LSU Health-trained doctors.

The National Residency Matching Program was established in 1952 to provide an orderly and fair mechanism to match the preferences of applicants for U.S. residency positions with residency program choices of applicants. The program provides a common time for the announcement of the appointments, as well as an agreement for programs and applicants to honor the commitment to offer and accept an appointment if a match results.

Residency programs will begin on July 1, 2022.

Camp Tiger

Each year, the first-year class of LSUHSC School of Medicine in New Orleans hosts Camp Tiger, a free week-long summer camp for children with disabilities. Throughout the week, many of our campers and counselors form a special bond that carries on as campers return year after year. Camp Tiger has been the first-year medical student class service project for over thirty-five years. Now, it is my class’s turn to continue the tradition this summer and bring back the smiles on our campers’ faces!

It is an honor to serve as this year’s Camp Tiger Director for the Class of 2025. I am incredibly proud of all the hard work my classmates continuously do to help Camp Tiger be the best it can be. We’ve had big shoes to fill, especially as we continue to adapt our lives around the COVID-19 pandemic. For example, the Camp Tiger Benefit and Auction, our main source of funding, returned via an online format rather than an in-person event. Despite this, my class was able to come together and raise over $80,000 for the kids of Camp Tiger! Safety is our top priority, so as COVID-19 cases continue to decline and COVID-19 vaccination rates rise within our city, Camp Tiger is excited to be back for another year to offer both an in-person and virtual format for our campers to choose from.

After a two-year hiatus, Camp Tiger is bringing its campers back on the beloved adventures with their counselors to the Audubon Zoo and Aquarium, Global Wildlife Center, Children’s Museum, and Carousel Gardens Amusement Park. With the huge success of last year’s virtual camp experience and for those who may not be ready or are unable to attend in-person camp, we wanted to continue this fun way for kids to participate. Our virtual camp experience will be just as exciting to our virtual campers as Camp Tiger will go behind the scenes on live virtual tours to the Audubon Zoo and Aquarium to interact with the animals, enjoy a true “camping” experience with stargazing and tasty marshmallows, create cool experiments on our science day, and get the chance to talk with some “super” special guests!

I know how much our campers and counselors truly cherish these special moments together. This is proven by the enthusiasm and excitement with which each of our campers participate in camp and eagerly await to return the next year, and the countless stories that we hear from their families. These children are so often overlooked by the community, and there are very few summer camps for kids with disabilities. Camp Tiger celebrates them and prioritizes their experience to provide them with an enjoyable summer camp to allow them the freedom to play, socialize, and express themselves as the vibrant kids they are. Lastly, it’s completely free of charge! None of this would be possible without the generous donations from our community. If you would like to donate to Camp Tiger, visit give.lsuhealthfoundation.org/givenow (Designate: Camp Tiger). Or visit bidpal.net/camptiger and donate today. Geaux Camp Tiger!
