

Kevin M. Sullivan, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor
Department of Surgery, Division of Surgical Oncology

Education

University of Pennsylvania	BA	5/2010	Chemistry
Medical College of Wisconsin	MD	5/2014	Medicine
University of Washington		7/2021	General Surgery Residency
City of Hope National Medical Center		7/2023	Complex General Surgical Oncology Fellowship

Dr. Kevin Sullivan is a board-certified surgical oncologist and Assistant Professor in the Department of Surgery, Division of Surgical Oncology at LSU Health Sciences Center New Orleans.

His clinical interest is the multidisciplinary treatment of complex abdominal and gastrointestinal (GI) cancers, particularly surgery or other therapies for advanced or metastatic disease including peritoneal malignancies. His passion includes a team-based approach to explore all treatment options for the most complex and advanced cancers in all patients including underrepresented and vulnerable populations.

Dr. Sullivan also has research experience in the immune microenvironment of GI cancers with a goal of developing new immunotherapies that target multiple types of cells to enhance a cohesive immune response against cancer. He has published over 30 peer-reviewed articles in high impact journals including Gut, Annals of Surgical Oncology, and Clinical Cancer Research. He has interests in clinical trials that can help bring these research innovations into new locoregional therapies for patients.