About the Visiting Professor Series

This course is designed for urologists engaged in the comprehensive management of patients with urologic diseases. Through invited lectures, practicing urologists will be exposed to current updates in the urologic field with an emphasis on the complex medical issues resulting from an aging patient population. Urologists will gain greater understanding of the advances in medical devices, drug therapies and enhanced treatment protocols resulting from the latest research and dynamic changes to the practice of urology. The scientific session is designed to introduce and reinforce treatment protocols for specific diagnoses to ultimately improve patient population health.

What You'll Learn

Learners will have the opportunity to engage in didactic lectures from experts in urology including practice updates and question and answer sessions. As a result of attending this activity, learners will:

- Understand the role of robotics in removal of retropubic mesh
- Identify complications in vaginal wall masses, post cystectomy surgery and bladder outlet obstruction.
- Be able to describe advantages and complications of male sling for PPI.
